The paper addresses the formation and the diachronic development of German complex prepositions with the general syntactic form [P N P]. Our contribution will focus on two patterns: the complex preposition mit Hilfe/mithilfe, exemplified in (1), and the structures with a more general pattern [mit N auf] ‘with N to’ and the abstract meaning of reference, see (2).

Being multi-word expressions, complex prepositions are located at the interface between lexicon and syntax (see e.g. Quirk/Mulholland 1964; Seppänen et al. 1994; Lindqvist 1994). Syntactically, they display some internal complexity and some degree of internal variation (in (2), mit Bezug could be changed to in Bezug). Semantically, the meaning of the whole sequence is mostly autonomous and non-compositional. It thus appears that they are complex units, in which some internal syntactic structure can be discerned, but whose elements dispose of reduced autonomy, especially with respect to their semantics.

Using data from the Deutsches Textarchiv (DTA, c. 1600-1900), the study traces individual small-scale changes in these complex units. It will be shown that these two patterns display divergent tendencies in their diachronic development in that creativity and routine intervene at different stages in any given development and play different roles in the emergence and propagation of a particular pattern.
